

BRYAN HAS ACCEPTED

IS IN HEARTY ACCORD WITH THE PLATFORM

BIG CROWD PRESENT AT NOTIFICATION

Leading Question Overshadowing All Others is "Shall the People Rule?"
---Republicans Responsible for Present Abuses

National Salute of 46 Guns Ushered in the Day and 20,000 People Arrived in Lincoln on Special Trains for Ceremonies.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 12.—As gently as possible, considering that some 20,000 people were concerned in breaking the news, Wm. J. Bryan was today informed that he is a candidate for the presidency of the United States. He accepted and assured the audience that gathered in the state capitol grounds here, that he was willing to be the "Moses" that would lead the people of this country out of the land of captivity and into the "promised land."

The entire west rejoiced with Nebraska. Every citizen of Bryan's state laid aside partisanship for the day, and Republicans and Democrats sat together on the big platform beside the capitol building, workmen having early repaired the ravages wrought by last night's rain, and the city was in gala attire.

Republicans and Democrats had alike decorated for the great day. At sunrise a national salute of 46 guns was fired and soon after special trains began to pour their crowds into Lincoln.

Bryan remained at his home during the morning, holding conference with National Chairman Mack. Shortly before time for the ceremonies began Vice Presidential Candidate Kern and Chairman Mack went to a hotel where they held an informal reception.

There was no formal parade to the capitol, but the candidates and the committee proceeded in a body in carriages. In the third carriage rode Messrs. Bryan, Kern, Mack and Convention Chairman Clayton.

Before the formal exercises began Chairman Clayton handed to Mr. Bryan the formal letter of notification signed by each member of the committee. National Chairman Mack called the meeting to order and introduced Congressman Clayton, chairman of the notification committee, who delivered the address of notification. Mr. Bryan listened attentively and replied as follows:

Mr. Clayton and Gentlemen of the Notification Committee: I can not accept the nomination which you officially tender, without first acknowledging my deep indebtedness to the Democratic party for the extraordinary honor which it has conferred upon me. Having twice before been a candidate for the presidency, in campaigns which ended in defeat, a third nomination, the result of the free and voluntary act of the voters of the party, can only be explained by a substantial and undisputed growth in the principles and policies for which I, with a multitude of others, have contended. As these principles and policies have given me whatever political strength I possess, the action of the convention not only renews my faith in them, but strengthens my attachment to them.

A Platform Is Binding.
I shall, in the near future, prepare a more formal reply to your notification, and, in that letter of acceptance, will deal with the platform in detail. It is sufficient, at this time, to assure you that I am in hearty accord with both the letter and the spirit of the platform. I endorse it in whole and in part, and shall, if elected, regard its declarations as binding upon me. And I may add, a platform is binding as to what it omits as well as to what it contains. According to the democratic idea, the people think for themselves and select officials to carry out their wishes. The voters are the sovereigns; the officials are the servants, employed for a fixed time and at a stated salary to do what the sovereigns want done, and to do it in the way the sovereigns want it done. Platforms are entirely in harmony with this democratic idea. A platform announces the party's position on the questions which are at issue; and an official is not at liberty to use the authority vested in him to urge personal views which have not been submitted to the voters for their approval. If one is nominated upon a platform which is not satisfactory to him, he must, if candid, either decline the nomination, or, in accepting it, propose an amended platform in lieu of the one adopted by the convention. No such situation, however, confronts your candidate, for the platform upon which I was nominated not only contains nothing from which I dissent, but it specifically outlines all the remedial legislation which we can hope to secure during the next four years.

Republican Challenge Accepted.
The distinguished statesman who received the Republican nomination for president said, in his notification speech: "The strength of the Republican cause in the campaign at hand is the fact that we represent the policies essential to the reform of known abuses, to the continuance of liberty and true prosperity, and that we are determined, as our platform unequivocally declares, to maintain them and carry them on."

In the name of the Democratic party, I accept the challenge, and charge that the Republican party is responsible for all the abuses which now exist in the federal government, and that it is impotent to accomplish the reforms which are imperatively needed. Further, I can not concur in the statement that the Republican platform unequivocally declares for the reforms that are necessary, on the contrary, I affirm that it openly and notoriously disappoints the hopes and expectations of reformers, whether those reformers be Republicans or Democrats. So far did the Republican convention fall short of its duty that the Republican candidate felt it necessary to add to his platform in several important particulars, thus rebuking the leaders of the party, upon whose co-operation he must rely for the enactment of remedial legislation.

As I shall, in separate speeches, discuss the leading questions at issue, I shall at this time confine myself to the paramount question, and to the far-reaching purpose of our party, as that purpose is set forth in the platform.

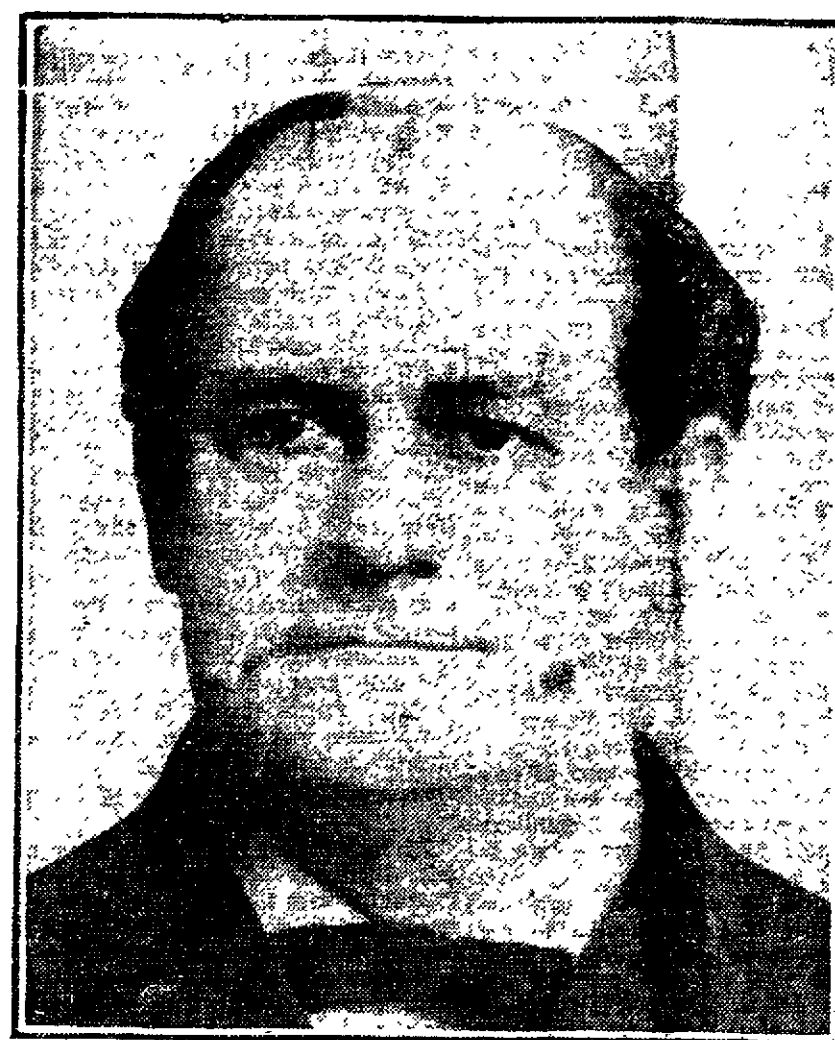

Shall the People Rule?
Our platform declares that the overshadowing issue which manifests itself in all the questions now under discussion, is "Shall the people rule?" No matter which way we turn, no matter to what subject we address ourselves, the same question confronts us: Shall the people control their own government, and use that government for the protection of their rights and for the promotion of their welfare? or shall

TROOPS ARE CALLED OUT

AGED WOMAN ASSAULTED AND POLICEMAN MURDERED BY PORTSMOUTH NEGROES.

Officials Fear Attempt at Lynching and Strong Guard Has Been Placed Around Jail.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 12.—Three companies of the Seventy-first Virginia regiment are quartered at the armory here by order of Governor Swanson, to be in readiness for a call for assistance from Portsmouth, opposite this city, where great excitement prevails over the killing of Policeman W. S. Winninger by a negro named Strong Four negroes have been arrested in connection with the murder and are held for identification. All four were endeavoring to leave the city secretly when arrested.

At midnight, following orders from Governor Swanson, the two Portsmouth military companies began to assist the police in patrolling the streets and in preventing the assembling of crowds. A strong guard has been thrown around the jail.

Following close upon the brutal assault on aged Mrs. Catherine Powell by an unknown negro, the killing of Winninger threw the already excited populace into a state of frenzy.

WRIGHT

Acroplane Made Splendid Flight Today Remaining in the Air for Seven Minutes.

Lemans, France, Aug. 12.—Taking advantage of the absence of the crowd of spectators, Wilbur Wright sailed his aeroplane for seven minutes over the Lemans race track course today covering an estimated distance of four miles. It was by far the most satisfactory flight the American aeroplane has made.

KING AND EMPEROR DISCUSS CONDITIONS IN TURKEY

Ischl, Austria, Aug. 12.—King Edward of England, is today the guest of Emperor Francis Joseph at his villa here. German statesmen believe King Edward is trying to detach Austria from the triple alliance. It is understood that conditions in Turkey were discussed at length.

JEALOUS FARMER

ATTACKS WIFE AND CHILD AND TAKES HIS OWN LIFE WITH SHOTGUN.

Had Accused Wife of Having an Affinity, and She Was About to Leave Him.

Loveland, Aug. 12.—As the result of a family quarrel Levi Fannon, aged 73, a farmer living at Dallasburg, 15 miles south of here, is dead and his wife, 52 years old, and daughter, Effie, 15 years old, are thought to be dying. Fannon accused his wife of having an affinity a man living at Loveland, and she was talking of leaving her husband last night. The husband seized a shotgun and shot his wife in the cheek, the bullet passing upward into her brain. She is unconscious and physicians say she cannot live. Fannon again tried to shoot her, but their daughter Effie jumped between them and prevented it. Fannon then attempted to shoot his daughter but failing to do so struck her a fearful blow on the head with an iron bar. She also is unconscious and is likely to die.

Fannon then walked a mile to the home of his son, Thomas Fannon, lay down under a tree pulled both triggers of his gun and blew off his head.

WILL TRY TO FIX BLAME

Two More Victims are Hovering at Death's Door at Hospital

Motorman in Piqua Wreck Had Figured in Similar Affair Three Years Ago Near Lima.

Piqua, Aug. 12.—Who is responsible for the death of four and the serious injury of at least 40 more persons in the head-on collision of the two "limited" suburban electric cars of the Western Ohio Traction company, nine miles north of here, Monday night?

This is the question which the traction railway officials, the local civil officials and the state railroad commission are planning to answer after their several separate investigations. General Manager F. D. Carpenter stated last night that he is making a rigid investigation and will later announce his conclusions. General Passenger Agent Charles Price said he thought that the accident was due to a misconception or misunderstanding of orders. Coroner J. C. Costello of Sidney will today begin his official inquiry to determine the responsibility for the accident. The state railroad commission will begin its investigation not later than Thursday.

All traces of the wreck have been cleared away. The dead have been removed to their homes and the injured not already in the Piqua and Sidney hospitals, will leave the county infirmary today under care of physicians with the exception of Motorman Harry Hale of Wapakoneta and Gallett Gaultier, who are hovering at death's door. Hale figured in the first wreck the road ever had, about three years ago near the Children's Home, just outside of Lima. A collision similar to that of Monday night occurred then and a number were killed.

PRETENDER'S FORCES STRIKE BLOW TO ARMY

Tangier, Aug. 12.—The forces of Mulai Hafid, the pretender, have just struck a staggering blow to the Sultan Abdul Aziz's army in a battle near Marrakesh. Messages from the scene of battle reached Tangier today. They say that the losses on both sides will run into thousands and that Abdul Aziz is in utter route. Mulai Hafid is following up the advantage and plans to strike until the Sultan's army is crushed.

FACTIONS UNITED

IN DEMOCRATIC PARTY IN ILLINOIS TO CARRY THE STATE THIS FALL.

Stevenson Was Bryan's Choice for the Nomination for Governor and Will Strengthen Ticket.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—For the first time in eight years the Democrats are to make a real attempt to carry the state of Illinois. They think they see a chance of winning, and are going after it. So far as the governorship is concerned there is no question but that their candidate has a united party behind him.

But while the local Democrats hardly hope to do anything more than elect a governor, the Democratic national committee is full of the idea that the state may also be carried for Bryan. It is a peculiar situation, and just the opposite of the Republican one. The Republicans who are disturbed over the bitterness left by their party fight for the nomination console themselves with the reflection that it will be all right, as Taft will carry Deneen through.

On the other hand, the Democrats are figuring that Stevenson may carry Bryan through. That Bryan has had hopes of carrying Illinois all along is known. He was born in this state, first nominated here, and he cannot understand why it has always been against him. He made extraordinary efforts during the ante-convention fight to unite all factions of the party here in his support, and succeeded so far as the Denver convention was concerned.

Stevenson was Bryan's choice for the nomination for governor. He did not openly declare himself, but all his old time friends in the state, as well as his more recent allies, were back of the Bloomington candidate. M. F. Dunlop of Jacksonville, and Roger C. Sullivan of Chicago, both met on this platform. Naturally, if Mr. Bryan should carry Illinois he would ascribe it to his own influence and not to Mr. Stevenson's, but at the same time he thinks Stevenson might help some.

GOV. HARRIS

WILL MAKE DETERMINED EFFORT TO FORCE TEMPERANCE ISSUE IN CAMPAIGN.

Has Accepted Engagement to Deliver Address at Lancaster Camp Grounds Next Week.

Columbus, Aug. 12.—Governor Andrew L. Harris will meet the opposition to him among the liberal element of his party with a bold front.

It is figured from even the cold and practical standpoint of organization politics that it is idle to endeavor to win back this vote, and that the rules of warfare demand an effort to break into the Democratic temperance vote to make up the known losses.

No account is to be taken of the fact that so eminent a man as Judson Harmon commands the highest respect from Democrats regardless of any temperance side issue that Harris and his following will try to inject into the campaign.

Another important fact that the Harris campaign managers ignore is the well known desire of Democrats everywhere to see Ohio once more have a chief executive who will be such a credit to the State and the nation as Judge Harmon will be.

It has already been announced that Governor Harris has accepted an engagement to deliver an address at the Lancaster Camp Grounds next week, in company with Governor J. Frank Hanly of Indiana.

It became known yesterday that at the opening of the Republican campaign at Youngstown, on September 5, the Chief Executive would devote part of his formal speech to a defense of his temperance record, both as Lieutenant Governor and later as Governor.

He will make a determined effort to force this record as an important issue of the campaign.

YOUNG TURKS

MAKE DEMAND ON SULTAN FOR HALF OF HIS PRIVATE FORTUNE.

Promises to Negotiate Loan Secured by Personal Property for Turkey's Rehabilitation.

Constantinople, Aug. 12.—Charging that his disagreement in the past was responsible for the depleted financial condition of the country, a committee of young Turks today waited on the Sultan and demanded that he surrender half of his private fortune to aid in the rehabilitation in Turkey. It was the boldest demand yet made on the Sultan and he refused. He promised the committee however, that he would negotiate a loan of even greater amount than was demanded of him, securing the loan with his personal property. This offer satisfied the young Turks.

CASH FARE IS RAISED

Cleveland, Aug. 12.—At a meeting of the Democratic members of the city council, who form a majority of the council, it was agreed that the Municipal Traction company, the three-cent fare company, shall charge five cents for a cash fare. Tickets may be purchased at the rate of three cents. The new rate is to take effect Thursday morning. This rate is to maintain until the "pay as you enter" cars are installed. The May and June deficits of the company is given as a reason for the change. The company predicts a profit for July, however, with three-cent fare.

FORAKER

Will Speak at the Ohio Opening at Youngstown

COMMITTEE TO BE DEFIED

Big Row Which Will Have Effect on National Campaign is on

Colored Voters Ignored and Were Turned Down by the Special Committee at Sandusky.

Youngstown, O., Aug. 12.—A row, the like of which the Republicans of Ohio never before faced, and one which will have its effect in the national campaign, is now on regarding the opening to be held here on September 5.

Foraker is not only to come here, but he is to speak. The special state committee is to be defied, and he will have his say.

The negroes have been ignored in this plea for a speaker at the opening of the campaign, and there is among them a revolt more pronounced than ever before.

The untold history of the meeting of the special state committee appointed to dispose of Foraker and take things out of the hands of the local committee is far more interesting than is the heralded tale of harmony which was given out for publication. The meeting in reality, was one of discord and embarrassment to the members of the committee.

It was urged in the meeting that Foraker had a large following in Youngstown, which would be greatly incensed at the slight placed upon him by not asking him to speak. There was a decided stand taken by some of the members to compel his being placed on the list of speakers. It failed, and a special invitation was ordered sent to him from the state headquarters.

It has been done, but the anti-Forakerites have scarcely awakened to the realization that it means he will make a speech here whether he has been invited or not.

He will come, and, of course, will occupy a seat on the platform. When the proper time comes there will be a cry for Foraker, and he will respond with a speech.

This is the move which has been started quietly by his lieutenants over the state and will be carried out to the letter. He alone knows what he will say, but he is going to say something, that is certain, but the row in connection with the turnout of the negroes by the special committee at Sandusky is more far-reaching and threatens to thwart all the nicely laid plans for getting back the vote in the state.

Here in Youngstown the need of a negro speaker for the opening was recognized. The movement had been started for the organization of a large Taft colored club, and things, they claimed, were moving along smoothly. (Continued on page 2, 6th col.)

JUDGE TAFT BUYS HORSE

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 12.—Judge W. H. Taft, through an agent, bought a Southern plantation horse, 16 hands high, weighing 1200 pounds, of Shelby T. Harbison of this city.

The horse won the first prize at the Blue Grass fair here yesterday, and the sale was announced last night. The horse will be shipped to Judge Taft before the end of this week.

MAKES PROFUSE APOLOGY FOR SHOOTING FLAG

Teheran, Aug. 12.—Declaring that it was wholly accidental the commander of the Loyalist troops in Tabriz has made a most profuse apology to the American consul for the shooting down of the American flag in the fighting of Monday according to a message received here today from Tabriz.

the representatives of predatory wealth prey upon a defenseless public, while the offenders secure immunity from subversive officials whom they raise to power by unscrupulous methods; This is the issue raised by the "known abuses" to which Mr. Taft refers. President's Indictment Against the Party.

In a message sent to congress last January, President Roosevelt said: "The attacks by these great corporations on the administration's actions have been given a wide circulation throughout the country, in the newspapers and otherwise, by those writers and speakers who, consciously or unconsciously, act as the representatives of predatory wealth—the wealth accumulated on a giant scale by all forms of iniquity, ranging from the oppression of wage earners to unfair and unwholesome methods of crushing out competition, and to defrauding the public by stock-jobbing and the manipulation of securities. Certain wealthy men of this stamp, whose conduct should be abhorrent to every man of ordinary decent conscience, and who commit the hideous wrong of teaching our young men that phenomenal business success must ordinarily be based on dishonesty, have, during the last few months, made it apparent that they have banded together to work for a re-action. Their endeavor is to overthrow and discredit all who honestly administer the law, to prevent any additional legislation which would check and restrain them, and to secure, if possible, a freedom from all restraint which will permit every unscrupulous wrong-doer to do what he wishes unchecked, provided he has enough money."—What an arraignment of the predatory interests!

Is the president's indictment true? And, if true, against whom was the indictment directed? Not against the Democratic party.

Mr. Taft Endorses the Indictment.

Mr. Taft says that these evils have crept in during the last ten years. He declares that, during this time, some "prominent and influential members of the community, spurred by financial success and in their hurry for greater wealth, became unmindful of the common rules of business honesty and fidelity, and of the limitations imposed by law upon their actions;" and that "the revelations of the breaches of trusts, the disclosures as to rebates and discriminations by railroads, the accumulating evidence of the violations of the anti-trust laws, by a number of corporations, and the over-issue of stocks and bonds of interstate railroads for the unlawful enriching of directors and for the purpose of concentrating the control of the railroads under one management,"—all these, he charges, "quicken the conscience of the people and brought on a moral awakening."

During all this time, I beg to remind you, Republican officials presided in the executive department, filled the cabinet, dominated the senate, controlled the house of representatives and occupied most of the federal judgeships. Four years ago the Republican platform boastfully declared that since 1880—with the exception of two years—the Republican party had been in control of part or of all the branches of the federal government; that for two years only was the Democratic party in a position to either enact or repeal a law. Having drawn the salaries; having enjoyed the honors; having secured the prestige, let the Republican party accept the responsibility!

Republican Party Responsible.

Why were these "known abuses" permitted to develop? Why have they not been corrected? If existing laws are sufficient, why have they not been enforced? All of the executive machinery of the federal government is in the hands of the Republican party. Are new laws necessary? Why have they not been enacted? With a Republican senate and house to carry out his recommendations, why does the Republican candidate plead for further time in which to do what should have been done long ago? Can Mr. Taft promise to be more strenuous in the prosecution of wrong-doers than the present executive? Can he ask for a larger majority in the senate than his party now has? Does he need more Republicans in the house of representatives or a speaker with more unlimited authority?

Why No Tariff Reform?

The president's close friends have been promising for several years that he would attack the iniquities of the tariff. We have had intimation that Mr. Taft was restive under the demands of the highly protected industries. And yet the influence of the manufacturers, who have for twenty-five years contributed to the Republican campaign fund, and who in return have framed the tariff schedules, has been sufficient to prevent tariff reform. As the present campaign approached, both the president and Mr. Taft declared in favor of tariff revision, but set the date of revision after the election. But the pressure brought to bear by the protected interests has been great enough to prevent any attempt at tariff reform before the election; and the reduction promised after the election is so hedged about with qualifying phrases, that no one can estimate with accuracy the sum total of tariff reform to be expected in case of Republican success. If the past can be taken as a guide, the Republican party will be so obligated by campaign contributions from the beneficiaries of protection, as to make that party powerless to bring to the country any material relief from the present tariff burdens.

Why No Anti-trust Legislation?

A few years ago the Republican leaders in the house of representatives were coerced by public opinion into the support of an anti-trust law which had the endorsement of the president, but the senate refused even to consider the measure, and since that time no effort has been made by the dominant party to secure remedial legislation upon this subject.

Why No Railroad Legislation?

For ten years the Interstate Commerce Commission has been asking for an enlargement of its powers, that it might prevent rebates and discriminations, but a Republican senate and a Republican house of representatives were unmoved by its entreaties. In 1900 the Republican national convention was urged to endorse the demand for railway legislation, but its platform was silent on the subject. Even in 1904 the convention gave no pledge to remedy these abuses. When the president finally asked for legislation he drew his inspiration from three Democratic national platforms and he received more cordial support from the Democrats than from the Republicans. The Republicans in the senate deliberately defeated several amendments offered by Senator La Follette and supported by the Democrats—amendments embodying legislation asked by the Interstate Commerce Commission. One of these amendments authorized the ascertainment of the value of railroads. This amendment was not only defeated by the senate, but it was overwhelmingly rejected by the recent Republican national convention, and the Republican candidate has sought to rescue his party from the disastrous results of this act by expressing himself, in a qualified way, in favor of ascertaining the value of the railroads.

Over-issue of Stocks and Bonds.

Mr. Taft complains of the over-issue of stocks and bonds of railroads, "for the unlawful enriching of directors and for the purpose of concentrating the control of the railroads under one management," and the complaint is well founded. But, with a president to point out the evil, and a Republican congress to correct it, we find nothing done for the protection of the public. Why? My honorable opponent has, by his confession, relieved me of the necessity of furnishing proof; he admits the condition and he can not avoid the logical conclusion that must be drawn from the admission. There is no doubt whatever that a large majority of the voters of the Republican party recognize the deplorable situation which Mr. Taft describes; they recognize that the masses have had but little influence upon legislation or upon the administration of the government, and they are beginning to understand the cause. For a generation the Republican party has drawn its campaign funds from the beneficiaries of special legislation. Privileges have been pledged and granted in return for money contributed to debase elections. What can be expected when official authority is turned over to the representatives of those who first furnish the sinews of war and then reimburse themselves out of the pockets of the taxpayers?

Fasting in Wilderness Necessary.

So long as the Republican party remains in power, it is powerless to regenerate itself. It can not attack wrong-doing in high places without disgracing many of its prominent members, and it, therefore, uses opiates instead of the surgeon's knife. Its malefactors construe each Republican victory as an endorsement of their conduct and threaten the party with defeat if they are interfered with. Not until that party passes through a period of fasting in the wilderness, will the Republican leaders learn to study public questions from the standpoint of the masses. Just as with individuals, "the cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches choke the truth," so in politics, when party leaders serve far away from home and are not in constant contact with the voters, continued party success blinds their eyes to the needs of the people and makes them deaf to the cry of distress.

Publicity as to Campaign Contributions.

An effort has been made to secure legislation requiring publicity as to campaign contributions and expenditures; but the Republican leaders, even in the face of an indignant public, refused to consent to a law which would compel honesty in elections. When the matter was brought up in the recent Republican national convention, the plank was repudiated by a vote of 880 to 94. Here, too, Mr. Taft has been driven to apologize for his convention and to declare himself in favor of a publicity law; and yet, if you will read what he says upon this subject, you will find that his promise falls far short of the requirements of the situation. He says:

"If I am elected president, I shall urge upon congress, with every hope of success, that a law be passed requiring the filing, in a federal office, of a statement of the contributions received by committees and candidates in elections for members of congress, and in such other elections as are constitutionally within the control of congress."

I shall not embarrass him by asking him upon what he bases his hope of success; it is certainly not on any encouragement he has received from Republican leaders. It is sufficient to say that if his hopes were realized—if, in spite of the adverse action of his convention, he should succeed in securing the enactment of the very law which he favors, it would give but partial relief. He has read the Democratic platform; not only his language, but his evident alarm, indicates that he has read it carefully. He even had before him the action of the Democratic national committee in interpreting and applying that platform; and yet, he fails to say that he favors the publication of the contributions before the election. Of course, it satisfies a natural curiosity to find out how an election has been purchased, even when the knowledge comes too late to be of service, but why should the people be kept in darkness until the election is past? Why should the locking of the door be delayed until the horse is gone?

An Election a Public Affair.

An election is a public affair. The people, exercising the right to select their officials and to decide upon the policies to be pursued, proceed to their several polling places on election day and register their will. What excuse can be given for secrecy as to the influences at work? If a man, peculiarly interested in "concentrating the control of the railroads in one management," subscribes a large sum to aid in carrying the election, why should his part in the campaign be concealed until he has put the officials under obligation to him? If a trust magnate contributes $100,000 to elect political friends to office, with a view to preventing hostile legislation, why should that fact be concealed until his friends are securely seated in their official positions?

This is not a new question; it is a question which has been agitated—a question which the Republican leaders fully understand—a question which the Republican candidate has studied, and yet he refuses to declare himself in favor of the legislation absolutely necessary, namely, legislation requiring publication before the election.

Democratic Party Promises Publicity.

How can the people hope to rule, if they are not able to learn until after the election what the predatory interests are doing? The Democratic party meets the issue honestly and courageously. It says:

"We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law prohibiting any corporation from contributing to a campaign fund, and any individual from contributing an amount above a reasonable maximum, and providing for the publication, before election, of all such contributions above a reasonable minimum."

The Democratic national committee immediately proceeded to interpret and apply this plank, announcing that no contributions would be received from corporations, that no individual would be allowed to contribute more than $10,000, and that all contributions above $100 would be made public before the election—those received before October 15 to be made public on or before that day, those received afterward to be made public on the day when received, and no such contributions to be accepted within three days of the election. The expenditures are to be published after election. Here is a plan which is complete and effective.

Popular Election of Senators.

Next to the corrupt use of money, the present method of electing United States senators is most responsible for the obstruction of reforms. For one hundred years after the adoption of the constitution, the demand for the popular election of senators, while finding increased expression, did not become a dominant sentiment. A constitutional amendment had from time to time been suggested and the matter had been more or less discussed in a few of the states, but the movement had not reached a point where it manifested itself through congressional action. In the Fifty-second congress, however, a resolution was reported from a house committee proposing the necessary constitutional amendment, and this resolution passed the house of representatives by a vote which was practically unanimous. In the Fifty-third congress a similar resolution was reported to, and adopted by, the house of representatives. Both the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses were Democratic. The Republicans gained control of the house as a result of the election of 1894 and in the Fifty-fourth congress the proposition died in committee. As time went on, however, the sentiment grew among the people, until it forced a Republican congress to follow the example set by the Democrats, and then another and another Republican congress acted favorably. State after state has endorsed this reform, until nearly two-thirds of the states have recorded themselves in its favor. The United States senate, however, impudently and arrogantly obstructs the passage of the resolution, notwithstanding the fact that the voters of the United States, by an overwhelming majority, demand it. And this refusal is the more significant when it is remembered that a number of senators owe their election to great corporate interests. Three Democratic national platforms—the platforms of 1900, 1904 and 1908—specifically call for a change in the constitution which will put the election of senators in the hands of the voters, and the proposition has been endorsed by a number of the smaller parties, but no Republican national convention has been willing to champion the cause of the people on this subject. The subject was ignored by the Republican national convention in 1900; it was ignored in 1904, and the proposition was explicitly repudiated in 1908, for the recent Republican national convention, by a vote of 866 to 114, rejected the plank endorsing the popular election of senators—and this was done in the convention which nominated Mr. Taft, few delegates from his own state voting for the plank.

Personal Inclination Not Sufficient.

In his notification speech, the Republican candidate, speaking of the election of senators by the people, says: "Personally, I am inclined to favor it, but it is hardly a party question." What is necessary to make this a party question? When the Democratic convention endorses a proposition by a unanimous vote, and the Republican convention rejects the proposition by a vote of seven to one, does it not become an issue between the parties? Mr. Taft can not remove the question from the arena of politics by expressing a personal inclination toward the Democratic position. For several years he has been connected with the administration. What has he ever said or done to bring this question before the public? What enthusiasm has he shown in the reformation of the senate? What influence could he exert in behalf of a reform which his party has openly and notoriously condemned in its convention, and to which he is attached only by a belated expression of personal inclination?

The Gateway to Other Reforms.

"Shall the people rule?" Every remedial measure of a national character must run the gauntlet of the senate. The president may personally incline toward a reform; the house may consent to it; but as long as the senate obstructs the reform, the people must wait. The president may heed a popular demand; the house may yield to public opinion; but as long as the senate is defiant, the rule of the people is defeated. The Democratic platform very properly describes the popular election of senators as "the gateway to other national reforms."

Shall we open the gate, or shall we allow the exploiting interests to bar the way by the control of this branch of the federal legislature? Through Democratic victory, and through a Democratic victory only, can the people secure the popular election of senators. The smaller parties are unable to secure this reform; the Republican party, under its present leadership, is resolutely opposed to it; the Democratic party stands for it and has boldly demanded it. If I am elected to the presidency, those who are elected upon the ticket with me will be, like myself, pledged to this reform, and I shall convene congress in extraordinary session immediately after inauguration, and ask, among other things, for the fulfillment of this platform pledge.

House Rules Despotism.

The third instrumentality employed to defeat the will of the people is found in the rules of the house of representatives. Our platform points out that "the house of representatives was designed by the fathers of the constitution, to be the popular branch of our government, responsive to the public will," and adds:

"The house of representatives, as controlled in recent years by the Republican party, has ceased to be a deliberative and legislative body, responsive to the will of a majority of the members, but has come under the absolute domination of the speaker, who has entire control of its deliberations, and powers of legislation."

"We have observed with amazement the popular branch of our federal government helpless to obtain either the consideration or enactment of measures desired by a majority of its members."

This arraignment is fully justified. The reform Republicans in the house of representatives, when in the minority in their own party, are as helpless to obtain a hearing or to secure a vote upon a measure as are the Democrats. In the recent session of the present congress, there was a considerable element in the Republican party favorable to remedial legislation; but a few leaders, in control of the organization, despotically suppressed these members, and thus forced a real majority in the house to submit to a well organized minority. The Republican national convention, instead of rebuking this attack upon popular government, eulogized congress and nominated as the Republican candidate for vice president one of the men who shared in the responsibility for the coercion of the house. Our party demands that "the house of representatives shall again become a deliberative body, controlled by a majority of the people's representatives, and not by the speaker," and is pledged to adopt "such rules and regulations to govern the house of representatives as will enable a majority of its members to direct its deliberations and control legislation."

"Shall the people rule?" They can not do so unless they can control the house of representatives, and through their representatives in the house, give expression to their purposes and their desires. The Republican party is committed to the methods now in vogue in the house of representatives; the Democratic party is pledged to such a revision of the rules as will bring the popular branch of the federal government into harmony with the ideas of those who framed our constitution and founded our government.

Other Issues Will Be Discussed Later.

"Shall the people rule?" I repeat, is declared by our platform to be the overshadowing question, and as the campaign progresses, I shall take occasion to discuss this question as it manifests itself in other issues; for whether we consider the tariff question, the trust question, the railroad question, the banking question, the labor question, the question of imperialism, the development of our waterways, or any other of the numerous problems which press for solution, we shall find that the real question involved in each is, whether the government shall remain a mere business asset of favor seeking corporations or be an instrument in the hands of the people for the advancement of the common weal.

Democratic Party Has Earned Confidence.

If the voters are satisfied with the record of the Republican party and with its management of public affairs we can not reasonably ask for a change in administration; if, however, the voters feel that the people, as a whole, have too little influence in shaping the policies of the government; if they feel that great combinations of capital have encroached upon the rights of the masses, and employed the instrumentalities of government to secure an unfair share of the total wealth produced, then we have a right to expect a verdict against the Republican party and in favor of the Democratic party; for our party has risked defeat—aye, suffered defeat—in its effort to arouse the conscience of the public and to bring about that very awakening to which Mr. Taft has referred.

Only those who are worthy to be entrusted with leadership in a great cause who are willing to die for it, and the Democratic party has proven its worthiness by its refusal to purchase victory by delivering the people into the hands of those who have despoiled them. In this contest between Democracy on the one side and plutocracy on the other, the Democratic party has taken its position on the side of equal rights, and invites the opposition of those who use politics to secure special privileges and governmental favoritism. Gauging the progress of the nation, not by the happiness or wealth or refinement of a few, but "by the prosperity and advancement of the average man," the Democratic party charges the Republican party with being the promoter of present abuses, the opponent of necessary remedies and the only bulwark of private monopoly. The Democratic party affirms that in this campaign it is the only party, having a prospect of success, which stands for justice in government and for equity in the division of the fruits of industry.

Democratic Party Defender of Honest Wealth.

We may expect those who have committed larceny by law and purchased immunity with their political influence, to attempt to raise false issues, and to employ "the liver of Heaven" to conceal their evil purposes, but they can no longer deceive. The Democratic party is not the enemy of any legitimate industry or of honest accumulations. It is, on the contrary, a friend of industry and the steadfast protector of that wealth which represents a service to society. The Democratic party does not seek to annihilate all corporations; it simply asserts that as the government creates corporations, it must retain the power to regulate and to control them, and that it should not permit any corporation to convert itself into a monopoly. Surely we should have the co-operation of all legitimate corporations in our effort to protect business and industry from the odium which lawless combinations of capital will, if unchecked, cast upon them. Only by the separation of the good from the bad can the good be made secure.

Not Revolution, but Reformation.

The Democratic party seeks not revolution but reformation, and I need hardly remind the student of history that cures are mildest when applied at once; that remedies increase in severity as their application is postponed. Blood poisoning may be stopped by the loss of a finger today; it may cost an arm tomorrow or a life the next day. So poison in the body politic can not be removed too soon, for the evils produced by it increase with the lapse of time. That there are abuses which need to be remedied, even the Republican candidate admits; that his party is unable to remedy them, has been fully demonstrated during the last ten years. I have such confidence in the intelligence as well as the patriotism of the people, that I can not doubt their readiness to accept the reasonable reforms which our party proposes, rather than permit the continued growth of existing abuses to hurry the country on to remedies more radical and more drastic.

Our Party's Ideal.

The platform of our party closes with a brief statement of the party's ideal. It favors "such an administration of the government as will insure, as far as human wisdom can, that each citizen shall draw from society a reward commensurate with his contribution to the welfare of society."

Governments are good in proportion as they assure to each member of society, so far as governments can, a return commensurate with individual merit.

The Divine Law of Rewards.

There is a Divine law of rewards. When the Creator gave us the earth, with its fruitful soil, the sunshine with its warmth, and the rains with their moisture, He proclaimed, as clearly as if His voice had thundered from the clouds, "Go work, and according to your industry and your intelligence, so shall be your reward." Only where might has overthrown, cunning undermined or government suspended this law, has a different law prevailed. To conform the government to this law ought to be the ambition of the statesman; and no party can have a higher mission than to make it a reality wherever governments can legitimately operate.

Justice to All.

Recognizing that I am indebted for my nomination to the rank and file of our party, and that my election must come, if it comes at all, from the unpurchased and unpurchasable suffrages of the American people, I promise, if entrusted with the responsibilities of this high office, to consecrate whatever ability I have to the one purpose of making this, in fact, a government in which the people rule—a government which will do justice to all, and offer to every one the highest possible stimulus to great and persistent effort, by assuring to each the enjoyment of his just share of the proceeds of his toil, no matter in what part of the vineyard he labors, or to what occupation, profession or calling he devotes himself. Immediately after the speeches a reception was held by Bryan and Kern inside the capitol building. Thousands shook the hands of the candidates. After the reception, the committee and invited guests, including Governor Sheldon, of Nebraska, Republican, went to Fairview as Mr. Bryan's guests at dinner.

The weather was overcast and threatening while occasionally a big cloud would spill rain in a real business-like manner. This, however, did not dampen the ardor of any one. There were plenty of umbrellas to be had, and between showers the sun would peep out and encourage all hands to the belief that it would be all right soon. However, the old timers were really pleased. It was true Democratic weather, they declared, and they recalled that the last Democratic candidate for the presidency who was elected, Grover Cleveland, was notified in a downpour of rain.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED FOR BIG REUNION

Expected That Fully 10,000 People Will Meet With Old Vets at Black Hand.

All the arrangements are now complete for the annual reunion of the old soldiers and sailors of Licking and adjacent counties, which is to be held in the beautiful Wickham grove at Black Hand on Thursday, August 13. The affair promises to be the biggest thing of the kind ever held at the romantic Black Hand, and it is expected that from 8,000 to 10,000 people will be on the grounds. There will be plenty of good music, both brass and martial, and there will be nothing left undone that will add to the enjoyment of the old vets. Special arrangements have been made for transporting the old soldiers and their families to the grounds.

The speakers who are on the program for addresses are Hon. Judson Harmon, Democratic candidate for governor, Col. W. L. Curry of Columbus, Gen. H. A. Axline, T. T. Smith, patriotic instructor of the G. A. R.; Hon. H. W. Kuntz of Zanesville, Hon. W. A. Ashbrook of Johnstown, Judge E. M. P. Brister, Attorney A. S. Mitchell, Hon. B. F. McDonald, and Chas. L. H. Long of Newark, Capt. J. M. Scott and Rev. J. L. Wyly of Granville.

At the meeting of the local executive committee, held last Thursday night, the matter was discussed. The committee decided that a negro speaker should be selected, and there was suggested one of the most prominent Republican colored men of West Virginia. Congressman James Kennedy was instructed to urge his name to the committee at Sandusky, but he wasn't admitted to the meeting.

T. W. Fleming of Cleveland, is the colored member of the committee, and he did the work. He made an appeal to the members to place a negro orator on the list for the day. He gave reasons, which seemed sound and sane enough, and his arguments became embarrassing to the members before he was through with his talk. The vote was taken, though, and no negro orator was added to the list. In fact, the entries were closed with Governor Hughes, Governor Harris and Senator Beveridge.

The committee has been close mouthed about that phase of the meeting, but it has leaked out at last, and the negroes are not slow in taking up the matter.

"PRIZE BULLHEAD"

Of All History is Roosevelt, Says Former Governor Campbell.

Marysville, O., Aug. 12.—The Democrats of the Thirteenth Senatorial district held the largest convention in their history here yesterday afternoon. The district is composed of Union, Hardin, Marion and Logan counties. Hardin county's delegation was accompanied by a large number of Democrats, including W. L. Finley, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, and W. W. Durbin, candidate for state auditor, both of Kenton.

Phil M. Crowe of Kenton, was chairman, and Bruce B. Gaumer, of Marysville, secretary.

There was but one candidate, W. P. O'Brien, of Raymond, Union county, and he was unanimously nominated.

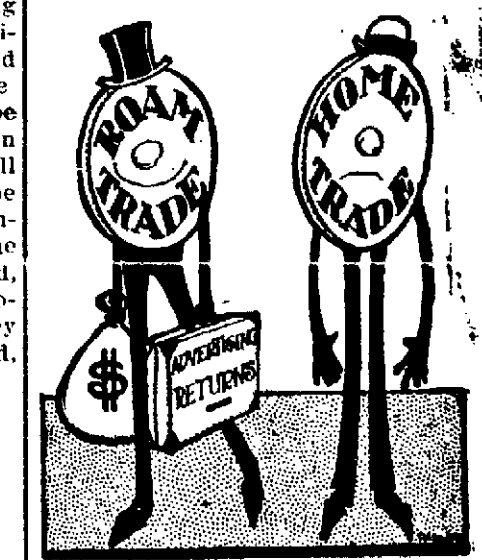

The new senatorial committee is as follows: Hardin, W. H. Evans; Logan, C. M. Jenkins; Marion, Lewis Sheriff; Union, Walter R. Weldman. The senatorial committee was empowered to fill all vacancies.

Former Governor James E. Campbell was the principal speaker. He stated that the state of Ohio would go Democratic this fall by over 100,000 plurality, and that Bryan would be elected president, Judson Harmon governor of Ohio, William Neiven congressman from this district, and O'Brien for state senator.

The speaker said the panic last fall was caused by the trusts and not by Roosevelt, although he referred to the latter as the "prize bullhead" of all history.

Home Trade Versus Roam Trade,

Home trade! Home trade! It's better far than roam trade. So keep your darling dollars in the town. Lend them, spend them, But never, never send them Around the world to wander up and down.

The celebrated American poet who penned those immortal lines might have added a prose footnote to the effect that roam trade will cease when home trade makes the same effort to get business as roam trade makes—in other words, when the home merchant advertises adequately in the home paper.

Did THAT ever occur to you?

Judge Parker has delivered the first campaign speech in behalf of Bryan. He addressed an audience of 2000 people at Los Angeles, Cal., a few days ago and his speech has caused much favorable comment on the Pacific slope.

Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, has signified his purpose of making speeches in behalf of Bryan, and we will be an influential factor in the campaign throughout the Northwest.

Bryan and Kern may be regarded in this contest as exponents of the view that the constitution of the United States is not yet ready to be thrown on the waste heap for old political junk.

That empty dinner pail is likely to weigh heavily upon the Republican party in this campaign. The workmen who have been idle for many months will be apt to ask: Under what political regime has become empty the dinner pail that ought to be full?

BANK DEPOSITS.

The Oklahoma plan of guaranteeing bank deposits is fast gaining ground. One trouble has always been that entirely too much money is piled away in stockpiles, cook stoves and other pieces, instead of being placed in the banks where it could get into circulation. There is always fear of the banks on the part of some people. It makes no difference to them how safe the bank seems to be, they are still fearful. A guarantee, such as the new state has, and such as Mr. Bryan strongly advocates, would bring out all the hidden money and get it into circulation.

Bloomfield, N. J., Aug. 12.—A balloonatic problem new in the history of aviation is puzzling Justice of the Peace Bessert here. It arose out of the fact that a gas bag belonging to Johnny Mack, a professional aeronaut who landed in the grounds of John Dey, of Willow street, was promptly seized and held by Dey, who demands compensation from Mack for damages caused by the crowd which over-ran his place to give it up. Dey refusing to give it up, was arrested and has given $1,000 bail to guarantee his appearance before the grand jury. Mack will ask for a writ of replevin.

ROOSEVELT WITH HIS "POLICIES" JOINED THE REACTIONARIES

The Republican platform seems to suit the men whom Roosevelt has stigmatized as the "malefactors of great wealth," yet Mr. Roosevelt has assured the party leaders that he is delighted with it.

Is it not rather singular to see the trust buster and the trust maker both satisfied? Have the trust magnates all reformed and the trusts become "good trusts" or has Mr. Roosevelt joined the reactionary forces of the Republican party that dictated the most important planks of the Chicago platform?

As candidate Taft is to be an underdog of President Roosevelt, and is to further carry out "my policies" it is most important to know just where the President now stands on the matter of trust busting and the punishment of evil-doers.

What lends color to the charge that Mr. Roosevelt is showing reactionary symptoms is the report that the prosecution of the Fertilizer Trust has been discontinued. There is also the fact that in spite of his seven years' work of the pursuit of "malefactors of great wealth," not one of these in stripes though we have been constantly reminded they should be.

The President in his Memorial Day speech declared:

MRS. DUKE

Found Guilty in Chicago of Swindling Hotel by Use of Worthless Checks.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Alice Webb Duke, divorced wife of Brodie L. Duke, millionaire tobacco king, today was found guilty of swindling the Great Northern Hotel by the use of worthless checks. Sentence has been postponed pending the hearing of a motion for a new trial.

American shoes cannot compete with the French goods in the markets of Haid.

"STAR BRAND SHOES ARE BETTER." STEPHAN'S DEPT. STORE.

"There has been plenty of dishonesty by corporations in the past. There will not be the slightest let-up in the effort to hunt down and punish every dishonest man."

And at Provincetown last year we are assured:

Whatever evil-doers can be found they shall be brought to justice; and no criminal, high or low, whom we can reach shall receive immunity."

Has the Fertilizer Trust joined the ranks of the good trusts, and has "My dear Mr. Harriman" reformed his management of the Alton railroad? The one is now free from molestation and the greater malefactor and corruptionist has never been prosecuted.

It is almost impossible to escape the conviction that Mr. Roosevelt must have changed his mind about the evil-doers, or has only been talking for political effect.

What, however is most to be feared, is that candidate Taft is no more hot-footed after bad trusts and corporations than Mr. Roosevelt has been. The evidence that Wall street and the trust and railroad interests are for Taft raises strong presumption that he will not molest them or interfere with their violations of the law.

STILL AT SEA OVER PLANT'S COMPLETION

General Manager Decker, of the Plant Iron works, at Dayton, arrived in the city Wednesday morning. He did not go to the office of the Board of Service, but went at once to the pumping station, north of the city, where the company has installed the pumps for the water plant.

The local board is as much at sea now as ever as to the time for completion of the first part of the contract. They have been unable to get any assurance from the contractors or pump people as to the time when the plant will be ready for the official test.

THE CITY DRUG STORE ON FIRE

WITH ENTHUSIASM OVER THE GREAT DISCOVERY

The great good that is being done here in Newark and vicinity has caused a flame of conviction to sweep over many homes, and scores of people are going to the City drug store to get some of the health-creating Root Juice that has caused so much talk throughout the state during the past few months. The demonstrators are now at the drug store every day from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., but the necessity of proving the merits of the great remedy has almost ceased as most of the people are convinced because they know of some neighbor or friend who is rapidly improving under the juice treatment. Homer L. Barlow was a recent caller. He said: "My little boy and self have been using the juice about a week and it is doing us both worlds of good. My boy was in a very bad fix before taking the remedy. He has used a great deal of medicine before taking the juice, without any benefit, but the juice seemed to take a hold of his case at the very start and improvement has been very rapid, his stomach and kidneys were in an awful condition before taking the great remedy. My trouble was indigestion, gas formed in my stomach and bowels and I bloated a great deal, but Root Juice has almost entirely stopped that." It seems that after people take the truly wonderful medicine a few days, they praise it so highly that their friends and neighbors go in crowds to see the instructions and get some of it. We heard that the scientist spent a fortune in perfecting Root Juice, he is certainly being rewarded for it is almost impossible to make the medicine fast enough to supply the demand. The discovery is certainly proved to be the greatest of the age for healing and toning the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys. Many people from every walk of life who have suffered for years with stomach troubles, rheumatism, nervous weakness and kidney affections after taking the remedy a few days are so enthusiastic in their praise that it is hard to doubt the health-giving properties of the medicine. We are informed that the demonstrations will continue but a few more days, at this point. The Root Juice is sold for one dollar a bottle or three bottles for two dollars and a half.

DEFIES NATURAL LAW.

Steel Trust Goes to the Limit—Only Hope of the People in Competition.

On May 21 a meeting of leading steel manufacturers was held in New York for the avowed purpose of agreeing on the prices of steel products. Such meetings had been held before and until recently were successful in keeping prices up to the figures reached before the panic last October in spite of the crippling effect on industries using steel materials and the enormous reduction in the demand for steel products.

The statement is made, on the authority of ex-Secretary Shaw, that the United States Steel corporation received from the president a promise of immunity from prosecution before it forced a combination with one of its chief competitors, the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company. The question arises whether it has similar immunity from prosecution for its violation of the anti-trust act by these meetings in New York.

The organization of the Steel corporation was notoriously the creation of a trust and an illegal restraint of trade, as has been pointed out by recognized legal authorities. See Wilgus' work on "The United States Steel Corporation," chapter 4. The trust now publicly conspires with its remaining competitors absolutely to control domestic commerce in steel goods, and yet no federal arm is raised to vindicate the law and safeguard the people's rights.

Perhaps it should not excite wonder that the trust, thus encouraged in its defiance of statute law, should have assumed to nullify the law of supply and demand, a law as well fixed in the nature of things as the law of gravitation. The new economic law established by the fiat of the steel magnates, as stated by Mr. Gary, reads thus: "The mere fact that the demand is greater than the supply does not justify an increase in price, nor does the fact that the demand is less than the supply furnish an argument for lowering the price. In neither case would the quantity bought and sold be more or less." Thus they sought to excuse themselves for starving industry in America by maintaining abnormally high charges for materials industry must use, while they sold to foreigners at a discount estimated at from 20 to 30 per cent.

Very recently the prices of steel products, except steel rails, have been slightly reduced. This is hailed as a vindication of economic law against the arbitrary decrees of the trust, but the practical vindication is by no means complete or decisive. The slight concession was made grudgingly.

Of course it would be incorrect to assume that a natural law can be repealed. The trust has merely suppressed competition, and has thus brought into operation another natural law, the law of monopoly. The people cannot enjoy the practical benefit of the law of supply and demand if they allow monopolies to flourish.

Protected from foreign competition by the high tariff wall, allowed by federal immunity or inactivity illegally to suppress competition and entrenched in its monopoly by control of the best mineral deposits of iron and fuel, the trust, we may be sure, will soon make its control absolute over the iron and steel industries. If we would have relief, the first step is to remove the tariff embargo on the importation of iron and steel, the protection which exists only to encourage combination and promote extortion. The next step is to withdraw the mantle of "immunity," if one exists, and make the trust sensible of the laws against restraint of trade.

JESSE F. ORTON.

PAPERMAKERS' TRUST.

More Than a Score of Companies Fined in Federal Court.

A few days ago twenty-four paper manufacturing companies were fined $1,000 each by the United States circuit court at New York for illegal combination in restraint of trade. This time it was a combine of wrapping paper manufacturers, and twenty-three out of the twenty-four pleaded guilty.

If the makers of news print paper had been brought before a grand jury instead of before a congressional committee specially appointed to shelve the matter till after election, they might have been more inclined to admit their combination, which has been so apparent in its results, the raising of prices.

John Norris, who has been prominent in the publishers' campaign against the news print paper trust, says that the price of wrapping paper was raised $16 a ton and the admitted profit of the pool was $1,600,000 annually, divided among twenty-five mills, since their combination in September, 1906. If this statement is correct, the profits resulting from the combine will pay the $24,000 fine and leave the promoters snug sums for their trouble and risk. Or is it a mistake to suppose that any one runs a risk in violating the federal anti-trust law? The manager of this pool, Parks, who is said to have drawn from it an annual income of $150,000, went to Europe as soon as the investigation was started. He seems to have thought there was a slight risk, or at least an inconvenience, in staying here longer; but, then, he had the custody of the combine's books and papers, which had to be got out of the way, and perhaps he was ready to reside abroad, like so many other Americans whose means of earning a competence have been unduly criticized.

At any rate, there is not virtue enough in the criminal anti-trust law to bring Parks back here. How long will it be before we quit shielding our trusts from foreign competition and then going through the farce of fining them because they do just what the tariff encourages them to do?

The Flower Widow.

Alicia Sayles was troubled. What troubled her was her own secret and was not suspected by any one. Indeed, it was not suspected at all that she was troubled. Why should she be? She owned the finest farm in the county, was a college graduate and comely. True she was an orphan, but as far back as she could remember she had always been an orphan. Her home was with an uncle and an aunt.

What troubled her was this: She had nearly passed what might be considered the best age for women to marry—she was twenty-seven—and was not married. Had it not been for her property she might have been married long ago. None of the young men of her acquaintance dared to aspire to the hand of the heiress, especially an heiress who was a college graduate. Nevertheless Alicia was a country girl, and desired to remain a country girl. If she married she would marry a farmer.

On her return from college she did not think of marriage. She had resources within herself which were greatly broadened by her education. For a time she read books on the lines marked out for her in college and was satisfied. But one morning she awoke to the fact that she was drifting into perpetual spinsterhood. The prospect did not please her. In her childhood and youth she had been deprived of that affection which exists in families and was averse to passing the latter half of her life without husband and children. She thought over the bachelors of her acquaintance and after some deliberation settled on Silas Blakely, a young farmer with little on his farm except a mortgage. On him she resolved to bestow her hand.

She did not know that Blakely would care to marry her, though she rather thought he would. But, considering she was well to do and he was poor, she knew he would not have the assurance to propose to her. She must propose to him. How should she propose?

One evening Alicia saw Blakely coming up the road, driving the stock from pasture. Hurrying into the garden, she gathered a bouquet and said to it, "I take you beautiful flowers, with your pink and blue and crimson and white complexion, to be my wedded husband." Then, calling to her aunt, she told her to take them to the well and throw them in as soon as Blakely came opposite, making sure he saw her doing so. The aunt took the bouquet, went to the well and when the young farmer passed acted as she had been told.

"Why do you throw those beautiful flowers away?" called Silas.

"They are my husband," said Alicia from the porch. "I'm a widow."

"What do you mean by that?" "Have you ever heard of the proverb 'Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways and be wise?'"

"Yes."

"Well, if you wish to know the meaning of my being married to the flowers, go to your books, and if you hunt patiently you will find out."

With this she went into the house. Blakely hurried on to overtake the stock which had passed during the brief dialogue, but he knew not of horses or cows; the strange episode had got into his head, and he was filled with wonder as to what it meant. While Alicia had been telling him that she was a widow she had looked upon him kindly, and her voice, which was sweet, still sounded pleasantly in his ears.

Now, Silas Blakely was no fool. His education was good for a countryman, but he neither had the books nor the inclination to hunt through them for any interpretation of such an insane proceeding. One of his schoolmates, however, had gone to college and had become a professor. To him Blakely wrote an account of the episode, asking for an interpretation.

Alicia possibly wished to test Silas' common sense. To hunt for the explanation himself would have been like looking for a needle in a haystack and while doing so his farm would have been sold out under the hammer.

It was a long while before he received the interpretation to the count-down, but when it came he opened his eyes and his heart started up at a gait of a hundred beats to the minute. The same evening, getting off his farm clothes and into a very respectable outfit, in which, by the way, he looked very well, he went to call on Alicia.

"I have come," he said, "to offer all I have—that is, my farm with a mortgage on it—for the flower widow."

"And how," she asked, blushing and smiling, "did you learn what is meant by a flower widow?"

Blakely told her of his application and showed her the reply, which was as follows:

In India a man often remains unmarried longer than he would desire simply because he cannot afford to pay the sum the father of a desirable daughter demands of his would-be son-in-law. Widows, however, are cheap, and a wily father who finds his daughter is getting on in years while suitors tarry takes advantage of this fact. He marries his girl to a bunch of flowers, which he then throws into a well. Thus the lady becomes technically a widow, and as such she is a bargain in the marriage market. Thus the flower widow is secured as a wife by a suitor who would not have dared offer a small sum for her before her so-called marriage.

Alicia found in Silas Blakely the man she desired for a husband. He not only lifted the mortgage from his farm, but managed hers for her so that both prospered. Through her life Alicia was devoted to her husband and her children, and when the former died no flowers were thrown in the well. She remained a real widow.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

Yesterday was book reception day at our new Public Library. It was remembered by many of our good people, but forgotten by as many.

Some hundreds of good books were donated. Books of good reading, and in good condition as a rule.

Hundreds of our people have wished for a library, and have said they would support same, and they will when they quit forgetting. Look over your libraries, do it at once, and bring or send in the books you can spare. We want all kinds of books, fiction, history, biographies, travel, books for children and for grown folks.

We need yearly subscriptions for some good magazines, reviews, papers, &c., for our reading room. Will you give one?

We want you to come and see the library. Will be ready in a few days to issue books. Do some thing for this work and do it at once.

HORSE THIEF

Said to be Headed This Way and the Police Are Asked to Look For the Rig.

Chief of Police Zergibel received a message Wednesday morning from Harrisburg, O., stating that a horse and buggy had been stolen from that place and asked the local police department to look out for it. The horse is a sorrel of considerable style, having a pretty mane and tail. It weighs about 1100 pounds. The buggy is a Poste Bros. make. The outfit was seen headed towards Columbus, two men occupying the buggy, and it was thought the thieves might come to Newark to dispose of the horse.

Williams' Kidney Pills.

POSTAGE PAID BY POLICE CHIEF TO GET COMPLAINT

A "citizen" evidently residing in the north end of the city, made a hit at the police station this morning when a communication from him was delivered by the postman and on which there was a postage due stamp for one cent. The letter was not signed. There was not sufficient postage on it to insure its delivery and in the letter the writer asked for a favor.

He probably did not know that in asking a favor he should be courteous enough to prepay the postage on the letter. He also should know that had he signed his name to the letter it would have more weight with the officials.

The letter complained of an alleged vicious bull dog at Park and North streets and asked that an officer be sent to look up the matter. While the letter will not be ignored, the writer did not gain anything by failing to sign his name and failing to prepay the postage. A personal complaint always is more desirable anyway than a written one.

INVENTION IS A SUCCESS

Jordan & Jones to Manufacture an Air and Water Tight Burial Case.

Another manufacturing concern that is bound to gain in prominence from the start and which will be located in Newark, will be the Jordan & Jones Manufacturing company, inventors and manufacturers of a new burial and shipping case. The case which is the invention of Mr. Jan Jones of Granville, is in every way practical and a big improvement on the old style wooden boxes in common use.

Mr. Jones has been at work on this idea of his for some time, and about nine months ago he applied for a patent. Shortly afterwards he made several decided changes in the case and about six months ago another patent was applied for. While little has been done to advertise the new cases yet several orders have already been received and a local concern is now manufacturing them. Another and larger firm is also desirous of making them but the deal for the making of them has not been closed by Mr. W. V. Jordan or Mr. Jones.

The case is similar to the light pine shipping and burial case now in use, but it is made of cold plate rolled steel and it is guaranteed air and water tight. A test was made of the case when it was placed in the Ohio river for ten days the edges of the box being cemented together with a rubber gasket. When it was removed it was found that no water or foreign substance had entered it during its immersion in the water of the river. It is also guaranteed air tight by Mr. Jones.

A wooden frame surrounds the case and to test the strength of the invention a three ton weight was placed on the top without effect.

Mr. Jones, the inventor, is a well known resident of Granville and formerly worked for a casket company

JOHN MINER SAYS HE BOUGHT WHEEL FOR $3

Hebron Young Man Who Jumped From Train Released at Columbus O.

John Miner, the Hebron young man who, though handcuffed, made a daring leap from a B. & O. train near Buckeye Lake a few days ago while the train was running nearly 40 miles an hour, and who was captured later by Officer George Norris after a three mile chase near Jockson town, was in Newark Tuesday evening.

Mr. Miner says that he was taken to Columbus and the case set for hearing on Thursday. On Tuesday he was released from custody, and he says the trouble has been settled out of court, through Detective James. Mr. Miner who is about 27 years old, says that at Mr. Norris' suggestion he bought a bicycle from a colored man in Columbus, paying $3 for it. Later he sold the wheel at Milford Center for $4. A Mr. Jennings lost a bicycle and it was claimed that the wheel Miner bought from the colored fellow was the one Jennings had lost.

Miner says that the officer had no warrant for his arrest and that he escaped from the train because he thought Norris had no right to arrest him.

From an Ohio Woman.

She says P. & G. Naphtha Soap is the greatest labor saving soap she ever used.

With the permission of the writer, we make the following extract from a letter which an Ohio woman sent us some time ago.

"I want to let you know the great good I have derived from the use of P. & G. Naphtha Soap. A sample bar of it was left at my home. After using it, I have no use for any other soap. It will do just what is said of it. I have proved it beyond a doubt. I use it for washing everything.

"I do hope that all the less fortunate wives and mothers like myself will learn of it and profit by using it. It is the greatest labor-saving soap I ever used. I keep no help of any kind. Have a family of four children to sew, wash and iron for, and the merits of your soap have surely been thoroughly tested by me. You are at liberty to use my name if in any way it will help to get P. & G. Naphtha established as the best soap manufactured."

(By P. W. Sheridan.)
Portsmouth, Aug. 12.—More than likely many an exciting scene has been enacted at Millbrook park. Over at the Casino in the last act the villain has "got his" many and many a time. The curtain has been dropped when the bold, bad man lay writhing in the horrors of a horrible death, and the crowd in attendance gloried in his agony. But that scene wasn't, deuce high to what happened yesterday afternoon, when the Shoemakers came from behind in a Gerson finish and not only won the game from the Molders, of Newark, thereby sending the fans home in a good humor, but showed for once that "luck" that extra base was for one time on the side of the locals.

When the ninth rolled around there was not one fellow on the lot that would have bet a peanut against a case of Blue Ribbon that the winners would be the locals. The score was 3 to 1 at this stage of the game with the Shoemakers on the short end. But you never can tell just what is going to happen in a ball game, and before the sun had hidden his face behind the towering hill that stands so majestically at the west of the park the locals had put the game in their bag, while Newark had had the candy taken away from them and were beating a hasty retreat for the gate.

The game was one of those draggy, listless kind, that is, all but the finish. Bushelman, a former Shoemaker, was on the mound for the visitors, while Billy Doyle, the nifty Irishman, occupied a similar position for the locals. Bushelman was as wild as a March hare, or as a February hare, for that matter—one is just as wild as the other. He had all kinds of speed, but dug his own grave when he permitted the locals to promenade to first so often. When he did get the ball over the plate he had the locals swinging like old Miss Heck, but then when a pitcher is as wild as Bushelman was on Tuesday, it is the proper thing to do to wait on transportation. He was skinned by Spencer and walked him purposely no less than three times. Twice he got away with it in fine fashion, but the last time proved to be the charm for Ches scored the winning run in the ninth. His support wobbled badly at times, but at that he can have no one to blame for his defeat but himself.

On the other hand Doyle pitched a careful, heady game. True he was in pretty deep water a number of times, but the plucky Irishman knew how to swim and it was a sight to see him paddle to shore. Billy was rapped with considerable freedom during the early stages of the game and it looked to the fans like it wasn't his day to shine. But immediately after the third inning he clamped on the brakes and from that time on Newark had just about as much chance of making a runaway race of the contest as John Temple Graves has of being elected president in November of this year.

When the game started the faithful were present. The crowd was not a large one, but what they lacked in numbers they more than made up in enthusiasm. The game was played in this fashion:

Newark was first to bat, and it looked as though they intended to put the game on ice at the start. Pinkney singled to center for a starter, but he was forced on an intended sacrifice by Wratten. The third baseman however, made up for it by stealing Abbott then cut in with a double, and Wratten scored.

Locke went out via Doyle to Spencer and Smith died when he hit a double to second. One run. But he failed to get a starter and for that he proceeded to beat out a hit to short. Nagle flew to center, and then Pinkney died on a steal. No runs. McClintock started the second by pitching a cut a double to center, and Williams came to life by singling to left. And it was at this interesting point that Manager Harry Ellis surprised himself by pinning a beauty to center. McClintock registering. Bushelman did his best to win his game by singling through the box, and the es no use talking. Tellers, managers looked blamed blue. But Williams went to sleep on third and was caught while in the trance by a snail throw by Doyle. Pinkney skied out and Wratten popped up a foul that was pie for Connelly. One run.

For the locals Spencer was given a base on balls and went to second. Pinkney attempted an old time play. Moeller gave up his 'lute that Ches might rest on third and then he died when both Rub and Doon fanned. No runs.

For Newark, Abbott was given a base on balls, but Wratten forced him once more on an intended sacrifice. Smith fouled out and Locke went out short to first. No runs.

In their half the locals proceeded to chase a score around the four corners. Connelly, singled to right and both Doyle and Burke were given bases on balls. Totman fanned, but Nagle sent a sacrifice to right and Connelly tallied. Bushelman walked. Spencer and laid for Moeller who sent a long fly to center. One run.

McClintock had shot his bolt and fouled to the catcher and it was after this that Williams flew to left and Manager Harry sent a letter to second. No runs.

For the locals Doon went out second to first, but Rub came to the front with a single to center and Connelly chased him on to second when he was hit in the ribs with a speedy one. Doyle breezed and Burke skied to left. No runs.

In the fifth the visitors annoyed another run. Bushelman went out Doyle to Spencer but Pinkney doubled to right. Wratten skidded and Pinkney scored. Locke lined to second. One run.

Totman popped one up for the manager of the visitors, which he kindly muffed and Totman went on to second. Nagle then sacrificed, but Spencer sent a short fly to short and Moeller fanned. No runs.

Not another run was made until the last inning, when the locals proceeded to win the game. Doyle began hostilities by pinning a two bagger in left. Burke wasted and walked, and Totman beat out a hunt one that caused Bushelman to take a lofty tumble. Nagle hit a hot one to short and Doyle scampered home with the second run. Bushelman was afraid to put it over for Spencer and he was given a free ticket to first. Moeller then hit a little one to Bushelman and Burke was nabbed at the plate. Williams, however indulged in a long throwing stunt and heaved the ball a mile over Doyle's head in an attempt to complete a double play, and both Nagle and Spencer scored, and the game was over. A hard one for Newark to lose, but a damn for the Shoemakers to win. The score:

WILLIAMS

Hear the Battle of the Timeware Today—McCann Joins the Molders.

Catcher Bob Williams, who has played with the Molders since early in the season, was today given his release. Williams gave promise early in the season of being a catcher of ability, and Manager Ellis had hopes of developing him, but for some reason at the crucial time Williams would lose his head.

His sick work improved but the directors did not think that it was of high enough order to onset his work of the diamond. The Portsmouth manager who ever he may be, signed him up and Bob will probably finish the season there. McCann, who has shown considerable ability as a back stop and who showed by his work in several doubles, that he possessed a good head was wired for and he will join the team today.

McCann, while young and inexperienced, will probably develop with proper coaching and by next year he should be able to do some good work for the Newark squad.

MANSFIELD

Not Wanted in O. P. League—Molders Did Some Hitting—Zanesville's Venture.

Two straight to Portsmouth. Pittsburgh fine, and every other team in the league has given them a good drubbing, but then Williams was responsible for the game being lost according to the papers. Of course the batting rally had something to do with it, too.

The Akron Beacon Journal says that Mansfield is not wanted in the O. P. League, and then comes the information that they are trying to advance their classification. Morton tried that early in the season but there wasn't a thing doing. They think, though, that to take on Mansfield would kill their chances, if they have any, of advancing a point in the classification of organized baseball.

The lineup of the All-Star baseball team that is to play the Boston team on Cy Young, day is announced as follows: Catchers, Kleinow and Schmidt; pitchers, Dorfman and Joss; first base, Chase; second base, Lajoie; shortstop, Waller; third base, Bradley; outfielders, Cobb, Crawford, Keeler or Hartzen.

The Newark team did some hitting yesterday, four two base hits being cracked out. Abbott got two of them, McClintock one and Pinkney one. Pinkney also got a single, while every man on the team with the exception of Wratten and Locke singled.

The dropping of two games to Portsmouth by Newark only increases the interest in the three cornered fight for third place. Lima, Mansfield and Newark are all well bunched for this bottom part of the first division.

Newark was invited to a long jump on this series of either two of them. From Marion they went to Portsmouth and now from Portsmouth they must hike back to Lima. The blowing up of Springfield badly rearranged the schedule in the league.

Not only in Newark but also in Zanesville the fans are trying to figure out just how much the team will cost the city that was anxious to get into the Central League. It is estimated that over $8,000 has been dropped, already and Zanesville is in seventh place. The season is too short for a bid to dislodge Wheeling but Marty Hogan's men are trying hard to do so. Eight thousand dollars, and the season not over yet. Pretty expensive experiment.

MANAGER

Bells Knows the Game From Start to Finish Says Portsmouth Daily Times.

Manager Harry Bells of the Molders is at the head of the team, not because he can play the game, but for the reason that he knows all the fine points of the game, and rarely overlooks a point. As a hitter, he is in the same class as Jack Mercer. He couldn't hit if someone pitched him a cantaloupe or a bunch of bananas. As a first baseman he is somewhat shy. Nevertheless Bells is a valuable man to the team. He has the knack of keeping his players on their toes and they all like him. Personally he is a very likeable fellow—Portsmouth Times.

COSHOCTON DAY AT BUCKEYE LAKE GRAND SUCCESS

Four Train Loads of Coshoctonites
Arrive in the City Early and are Having Grand Time.

Wednesday, August 12, was most emphatically Coshocton Day at Buckeye Lake, and it seemed as if the entire population of Coshocton was being dumped into Newark during the early hours of the morning, preliminary to their taking the cars for Buckeye Lake. It is estimated that fully twenty-five hundred people from Coshocton, West Lafayette, Newcomerstown, Conesville and Dresden were in attendance at the outing.

The people of Coshocton have been in the habit for a number of years of taking a day off once a year and spending the time at some favorite resort, like Cedar Point, for instance, and generally returned home at night tired out with the long journey. This year, through the efforts of Mr. James H. Smith, the bustling passenger agent of the Panhandle railroad company, and the advice of a committee that had been appointed by the business men of the place, it was decided that the outing which was under the auspices of the library, should be held at beautiful Buckeye Lake, and arrangements to that effect have been making for the past several weeks, the outpouring on Wednesday testifying to the success of their efforts.

It was expected that fully four thousand people would take advantage of the opportunity and visit Buckeye Lake, but owing to the fact that several hundred men who have been idle for several months owing to the shut down of the steel mills, have just been put to work by the starting up of the mills, at least one thousand people were prevented from enjoying the outing.

The first train to arrive in Newark Wednesday morning had 510 excursionists on board and was in charge of Conductors J. W. Preston and Seth M. Snyder.

Conductors Joseph P. Callahan and Joseph L. McDowell had charge of the second train which had 650 excursionists on board.

There were 550 people on the third train which was in charge of Conductors M. A. McConnell and John H. Ricketts.

Conductors Robert Q. Baker and E.

H. Mack were in charge of the fourth train which brought 510 excursionists. Upon the arrival of the various trains in the city the excursionists disembarked and started up South Third street for the public square, a solid mass of people filling the sidewalks from the depot to the public square.

The electric railroad people had made ample provision to accommodate the large crowd and had ten large interurban cars waiting on the south side of the square for each train. As soon as one train would arrive in the city the people were hurried to the electric cars and whirled out to Buckeye Lake in a few minutes.

General Manager Gibbs and Superintendent Moore of the electric lines, came over from Columbus and personally superintended the handling of the large crowds, which were taken to the lake without a hitch of any kind, and with no accidents. Many expressed the opinion that the electric lines would be unable to handle the crowds that would come from Coshocton, but the fact is that several thousand more people could have been handled with ease.

The hundreds of Coshocton people upon arriving at the lake were perfectly delighted with the place and all proceeded to have a good time. Fishing, boat riding, dancing, roller skating and the enjoyment of all the various amusement features of the park were enjoyed to the utmost.

During the day hundreds of the excursionists made trips between the lake and Newark, and the streets of the city presented a lively appearance. The people of Coshocton surely had a big time in Newark and at the lake, and all were simply charmed with the pleasures of Buckeye Lake Park, and if the many expressions of satisfaction over the pleasures enjoyed are any criterion, Coshocton will come to the lake again next year.
